Berlin, March 20.—The National Gazetle, referring to Prince Bismarck's remarks to Signor Boccorda yesterday, one of the Italian delegates to the Labor Conference that the paths of Italy and Germany would be identical in the future as they had been in the past, says that the observation may confidently be applied to the German foreign policy generally.

The appointment of General von Caprivi to succeed Prince Bismarck, the paper says, has nothing of a threatening character. It calls attention to the fact that the Duke of Wellington was at one time Prime Minister of Great Britain, and declares that the German generals appreciate the blessings of peace no less than the other Germans in responsible positions.

Be assured it was the bad generalship and corruption that had to do with the French defeat. High explosive, smokeless powder, magazine guns, military railways, electricity, all make war a different thing now. It is safe to predict a future war, for war there will be. It will be short and unsanguinary. What kaleidoscopic changes fit will make on the map of Europe is beyond the ken of man. England jealous of Russia's encroachments in the past; Russia jealous of Austria, jealous of the power of Germany; England worried at certain uncainess in India, whose sleepy people are held subject by bribery and a mere handful of troops, but who are being educated to the fact. Addresses a Meeting of Conservative Mem-

By Anglo-American cable to the Dispatch.!

Lospos, March 20.—A meeting of the Conservative members of Parliament called by Lord Salisbury was held at the Carlton-Club house to-day. Lord Salisbury made an address in which he said he regretted to see the slow progress of the business in the House of Commons. The Government, he declared, was compelled to deal with obstruction of the most determined kind. He trusted that every supporter of the Government, at whatever cost to his personal convenience, would give unremitting attention to his parliamentary duties. The tithes bill and landpurchase bill were of paramount importance. The tithes bill must pass its second reading before Easter. He believed the proposals contained in the land-purchase bill are such as to secure the unanimous support of the Liberal Unionists.

In regard to assisted education, on which subject there was much misconception and misrepresentation, Lord Salisbury begged the members to reserve their opinion until the measure is introduced. Lord Salisbury pidculed the report that Parliament would soon be dissolved. He declared that the new Irish bill would secure the possession of the landlords to their property. Mr. Salisbury also expressed the hope that the difficulty with the United States over the Behring Sea question would be settled soon, but, he said, with such susceptible a nation as America Great Britain cannot negotiate at the top of her bers of Parliament.

Berlin, March 20.—A special edition of the Reichsanzeiger contains the imperial rescripts cordially thanking Prince Bismarck for his services and appointing him Duke of Launburg, a colonei-general of cavalry, and a field-marshai general; also, appointing Count Herbert Bismarck ad micrim Winister of Foreign Affairs, and General von Caprivi Chancellor and president of the Prussian Ministry.

In the first rescript the Emperor save that acceding to the requests made on the 18th instant he grants Prince Bismarck permission to retire, hoping confidently that the Fatherland will profit in the future as it has profited in the past by his counsel, energy, and faithful devotion. The Emperor says he had hoped that the necessity would not arise for Bismarck to think of separation during his lifetime. He regards it as the mest providential dispensation of his life that on several occasions he has held Prince Bismarck by his side. What the Prince Bismarck's wise and energetic policy of peace, by which the Emperor is reseived to be guided in the future, being fully convinced of its correctness, will always be remembered abroad, and well deserves recognition. It is not in the Emperor's power to reward Bismarck for his services, but as a sign of his lasting thanks he confers upon him the dignity of the Duke of Launburg and presents him with a life-size oil painting of himself. In the second rescript the Emperor thanks Bismarck as amitiary leader for his invaluable services in the army during the time of William I, and to the present day, adding that he knows he will not be alone with the army by retaining Bismarck in the highest rank by appointing him field-marshal general and colonel-general of the cavalry.

In the first rescript the Emperor addressed Bismarck as "My Dear Prince," and says with deep emotion I have seen from your entreaty of the 18th that you are determined to retire from the offices you have occupied for so many years with such incomp such susceptible a nation as America Great Britain cannot negotiate at the top of her voice.
